I Was Not Afraid
words by Pat Armstead

Weep not for me kind friends, this is not the end. Lift your spirits high, and know I did not die. Wipe your weeping eyes, I'm fitted for the skies. Sorrow now no more, I walked through heaven's door. Look unto the hills, this is the Savior's will. Please don't despair, the angels took me there. Because I am not dead! I'm more alive than when I walked below, I caught a glimpse of heaven, and I just wanted to go. I said, "Come Lord!" and in the twinkling of an eye, the angels hurried in and carried me to the sky. And greater joy in knowing, I'm not even old! Saints here are alive, I want you to know, Bless the Lord, you prepare now to. Heaven is sinless, so keep holy your way, and whatever you do, take time to pray.
